Late See below, which I'd written before the Royal Mail didn't bother to deliver my PO Box on Wednesday (as they hadn't on Tuesday, Monday and Saturday). Consequently I've had to wait a day to run Wednesday's turns, which may have a knock-on effect on Thursday's as well. I can only apologise, though when the man at the Post Office uses phrases like "it'll only get worse" and "hopefully" it doesn't exactly give much cause for optimism. If you can get access to the Internet for orders, I'd recommend it.

Royal Mail The post around here seems to be going through a particularly bad patch (even by Bromley's own poor standards) so a reminder that I recommend you allow THREE days for first class mail to arrive. If you can send orders via the Internet that is by far the best option, removing any danger of the Snail delivering orders late. Quite how they can charge £120 annually to deliver a PO Box when half of the week they don't bother is beyond me, and then they wonder why they're losing money. Be warned!

Deadlines and Processing All of the above gets me to thinking about deadlines and processing. At present I wait for the post to arrive before processing turns. Back in the 1990's when that was between 9am and 10am that was a no-brainer but nowadays the post arrives between midday and 1pm. Which then means a scramble to get games run, often waiting for a handful (or less) of last minute posted orders (the vast majority submit via the Internet, and the majority of the rest don't wait until the last minute anyway). I'm beginning to wonder whether it's simply better to wait until 9am, and then start running. For postal players it'd mean you've got to discipline yourselves to make sure orders arrive "the day before", or get around to using the Internet anyway. What it would mean is results generally going out a few hours earlier, which for internet players might mean getting them before you leave work, and for postal players a higher chance of the Snail getting them to you next day. Comments are welcome.

Late Email Results If you think results are late, please make sure you wait until the following morning before chasing up results. First step is to check out the Latest News at www.pbmsports.com - if I am running late I'll post a notice there. Please don't chase me up because you know your mate got his half an hour ago, because whilst most emails are "instant", often they do get delayed for a few hours and it does take a while to send them all out (I spread them out to avoid triggering firewalls).

Equally however, if it's the next morning and you've not had results, and there's nothing on www.pbmsports.com saying I've had a problem, then please chase me up. If it hasn't shown 12 hours later, odds are it won't, and probably some firewall or spam filter somewhere has gobbled it (and they do appear to do so without pattern). I'd rather you ended up with two copies than none.

PDF Reports Emailed game reports are available for all games here. The standard format is a PDF file - Adobe Reader is free to download (see www.pbmsports.com for a link) and you can open your reports with one click of the mouse and you can either view them on screen, or print them as you wish. You don't need to worry about formatting or printer drivers. The text format for reports is available but I only expect people will want to do so if they use the text file for other purposes (such as exporting the listings into software produced yourself). If you've not tried email reports before, try them out - it really is very easy.
